YOUR ROLE

- You are part of the customer journey from initial contact to proposal
- You present our product to the customer, highlighting its beneficial features
- You understand our customers' technical problems and propose solutions with our product
- You optimize sales strategies with regards to market- and customer demands
- You establish and maintain customer relationships
- You support our team on international IT conferences and events

YOUR PROFILE

- Bachelor or Master degree in a technical field, e.g. Computer Science, IT, Engineering, or similar
- Excellent communication skills in English, both verbal and written
- Advanced knowledge of software development with a focus on web technologies
- Technical sales experience and strong personal interests in technology
- Experience in B2B Business, ideally in the IT field

YOUR BENEFITS

- Join a highly motivated team and become an integral part of the RIPS family
- Work with leading experts in information security and a superior product
- Work in a major position with excellent development options on international platforms
- Attractive salary and additional pension scheme
- Flexible working hours and regular team events
